MONDAY EVENING, JULY 14.

SUMMER PLAY .- Nothing can be more cruel and nothing more foolish than to place children where they must be dressed every day in fresh and fashionable clothes, and their freedom to play curtailed for the sake of appearances. What childhood needs is perfect freedom among the things of nature-freedom to romp, to make mud pies, to leap fences, to row, to fish, to climb trees, to chase butterflies, to gather wildflowers, to live out of doors from morning until night, and to do all those things that innocent and healthy childhood delights in, in cheap strong clothes provided for the purpose. Exactly that which childhood needs, manhood and womanhood need-perfect liberty and perfect carelessness. So, whether the dweller by the sea go inland for his summer play, or the resident of the inland city go to the sea, he should seek some spot unvisited by those devoted to fashionable display, and pass his time in unrestricted communion with nature, and in those pursuits and amusements which, without let or hindrance, perform the office of recreation. - Dr. F. G. Holland, Scribner for July.

BALLOONING. - A letter has been written by Professor Henry, chief of the Smithsonian Institution. Washington, in reply to inquiries by the Graphic Publishing Company of New York, and Professor Wise, the aeronaut, as to the proposed trans-Atlantic ballooning scheme. Prof. Henry thinks while it may not succeed, the plan as described is not incompatible with the laws of nature, but that it would be better to make an experimental trip across the continent first, for though there would not be as many adverse currents on the ocean as the land, it would encounter the risk of meeting a eyclone, which might drive it from its course, against which there would be no remedy except in mounting to the upper other. Prof. Wise holds the opinion that his balloon will have gas enough to surmount the cyclone regions, and means to make the attempt, which he hopes to accomplish in seventy hours. He says he would rather fall into the ocean than upon the Rocky Mountains in some desert place. - Bult. Sun.
